Jennifer Fairbanks
Battaglia Capital, SA
Lagos, Portugal

Attn. Employment Decision Committee:

In the event of learning of the engineering internship in Lagos, Portugal, this summer, I felt prompted to apply for this opportunity. Working for Battaglia Capital interests me both for the engineering task and the location. Being a fluent Portuguese speaker and studying mechanical engineering made this an opportunity to not pass by.

I am currently a senior in the Mechanical Engineering program at Brigham Young University (BYU) and work as a research assistant for the BYU Biomechanical Engineering Laboratory (BABEL). Focus and self-mastery has enabled me to pursue learning in all areas of my life. Through my coursework at BYU I have developed a passion for troubleshooting and problem-solving. collaboration. Technical Skills. Manufacturing skills.

For two years I lived in Brazil as a full-time missionary for The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints. During that time I developed not only maturity and self-reliance, but communication skills required in proselytizing in a foreign language. With consistency and diligence, I learned to speak and write Portuguese. After returning home in 2013, I took advanced Portuguese classes and obtained my Portuguese Language Certification at Brigham Young University.

Your time and consideration is much appreciated and I would love to meet with you to further discuss my resume. I look forward to hearing back from you.

Respectfully,
